

David Disiere and Jack Wisdom, Owners

Friendswood Mediation and Conference Center

David Disiere

Jack Wisdom

Friendswood residents, David Disiere and Jack Wisdom, recently opened their new 6,000 square foot mediation and conference center at 205 E. Edgewood. Built with a Texas Hill Country design, Friendswood Mediation and Conference Center includes a 900 square foot wooden deck in the back on a three-acre wooded lot next to Mary's Creek and offers up to seven conference rooms for a half-day or full-day for a pre-set fee. The facility is an ideal place for small businesses to hold off site meetings, training, and business related events and can provide secretarial and support services for those using the facility. They can also host small, special events depending on the type and size.

David and Jack are both long-term residents of Friendswood and are also law partners with the downtown Houston law firm of Martin, Disiere, Jefferson and Wisdom. Jack Wisdom and his wife, Diana, moved to Friendswood in 1983 and are known for starting Friendswood Young Life group in 1985, which has since grown into one of the largest in the nation. David Disiere likes to say that he "married into Friendswood," when he married long-time resident, Melissa Summers in 1986. They soon thereafter bought their first home in Friendswood and have lived here ever since.

David stated "until now, most folks in our area would have to travel into Houston for mediations. We've provided an alternative that's closer to home – live here, work here, and now... meet here in Friendswood." He added "the location, less traffic, reasonable tax rate, and ideal business environment presents many economic advantages. Friendswood is a great place to do business! And the folks at City Hall, Planning and Zoning Commission, and the Community and Economic Development Committee have been most helpful and a pleasure to deal with."

Friendswood Mediation & Conference Center